

Milano Design Week 2018

Matter Made is an American manufacturer of contemporary lighting, furniture and objects. From concept to creation, its in-house design team produces minimal works with superb craftsmanship and an unwavering commitment to the highest level of refinement and finish, making pieces that will last a lifetime. This philosophy also guides the brand in choosing collaborations with the most influential and innovative designers working today, as well as the upcoming addition of important historical works to its growing catalog. For its second attendance at Milan Design Week, Matter Made has re-edited a collection of concrete vases based on the designs of the Brazilian maestro, Sergio Rodrigues. Moreover, the brand will be showing an extension of the collection developed from the best seller the Champ stool, along with a lamp signed by the young rising star Pedro Paulo Venzon. In addition, new pieces by Philippe Malouin, Visibility and Luca Nichetto, Objects of Common Interest, Matter Made Studio and Faye Toogood will be on show.
