with Kama, In-Touch, Luoghi e MeatPacking collections

G.T.Design, will also take part in the Salone Internazionale del Mobile in Milan, through a partnership with prestigious and historic Made in Italy brands.

Arflex, Gallotti&Radice, Lema and other important brands have chosen the refined collections of G.T.DESIGN, using these seductive rugs to enhance their own presence at the most important international event in the world of design and furnishing.

Created under the guidance of Deanna Comellini, designer and art director of the Bologna-based company, G.T.DESIGN's refined creations represent a brilliant explosion of color, light and nature that allow the most traditional artisan to encounter the contemporary world through experimentation and innovation. The extraordinary result is a catalogue of high-end rugs; their richness and variation shows the quality and artistic creativity of the product. Kama, In-Touch, Luoghi and MeatPacking are the collections featured at the Salone del Mobile exhibition.

Kama

The weave that reinvented the vision of the contemporary rug and established a new trend in the industry is still unmatched in terms of its sheen and chromatic depth. In Kama, light and color merge and create luminous planes, the modularity and chromatic flexibility of which render every interior in which these rugs are used unique and exclusive. Kama Original is now a fixture in the history of design and is often associated with pieces by the creative Masters thanks to its range of exciting, vibrant colors. The collection has been expanded with Kama Ambient and Kama Peline.

In-Touch

Hands that come into contact with the unique fabric of this collection remain enchanted by its softness. Firstly, it satisfies your sense of touch but it also offers the chance to select a color that will satisfy you, redefining shapes and dimensions above and beyond the ordinary. In-Touch meets the most creative and extreme requirements. It may be used as an area rug or a wall-to-wall floor covering system. In-Touch Campiture is a rug woven with a special brick-like pattern, inspired by the paving typically found in Italian piazzas; the blocks of color are separated by delicate grooves created in the body of the rug. This special process lends chromatic depth to the rug, emphasized by a rich palette of nine solid shades that can be combined; two possible colorways are illustrated in the catalogue.

The rugs are produced in Tencel, one of the most eco-compatible fibers currently available on the market. It is obtained from easily-renewable sources, and the production process has a low environmental impact. The resulting cellulose-derived fibers are soft, light, breathable and biodegradable.

Luoghi

Entirely handcrafted with meticulous attention to detail, the Luoghi collection of carpets makes lightness the main expression of modern luxury. Fully hand painted on both sides, the combination of durable wool fabrics with a rich signature color palette makes each element a unique and unrepeatable piece. Hand sewn seams and modularity help the designer create textile paintings that combine practicality with elegance for a uniquely welcoming ambiance and atmosphere.

MeatPacking Antique Hemp

The MeatPacking rugs are delightful limited editions resulting from research into the expressive power of color and tactile textures; the space would appear to be geometrically reorganized, exploded around them.

The model MeatPacking Antique Hemp is produced using reclaimed antique canvases in hemp fibers. The natural sheen of this quality natural fiber and its excellent resistance to wear and tear transforms the rug into a unique visual and tactile experience.

Available in three basic colors: White, Natural and Anthracite gray.
